

ABSTRACT

According to one aspect of the invention, a method is disclosed. The method comprises generating an asymmetric cryptographic key pair comprising first and second keys; encrypting a boot loader program for a baseband module with said first key; storing said second key in said baseband module; and distributing said encrypted boot loader program together with said second key.